Life—Before Paradise

- I live in the far frozen North. People like me have every reason to want to escape to the tropics. We call it “Offshore-Express.”

Maybe tomorrow, when my partners and I are gathered around the boardroom table reviewing business plans for a new project; there will be snow outside and dropping temperatures; we’ll get that desperate look on our faces and someone will say, like a curse, “Offshore!” I’ll grab the phone before anyone can stop me and order up tickets to some far-off exotic destination. We’ll start a whole new business plan, an investigation of another offshore tax haven; some warm tropical place—like “Pan-a-mawww.”

There are anecdotes and a lot of detailed information in the book; where to go, who to talk to; everything you need to get along in Panama.
